TAFT TO SELECT CHAIRMAN

Holds Solid Control of Preliminary Organization

Roll Called and All Answer "Taft" But One, Who Was Absent

It may be that President Taft will himself pick the temporary chairman for the Republican National Convention. At any rate he will be a Taft man, and the President will be consulted before he is named.

That the President might be consulted, the subcommittee on arrangements announced no permanent person for that place today. Instead Chairman Harry S. New, of the subcommittee, was authorized to make the selection and announcement when that selection is made.

"I cannot tell you who is going to be chosen, because I do not know," Col. New said tonight, after adjournment of the committee meeting. "Nor can I say definitely when a selection will be made," he went on.

"Of course we discussed several men and mentioned several names at our meetings today. But no one has been determined on, and I have the full authority of the committee to pick a man. To give me that authority was the only conclusion the committee reached."

There is a further understanding though that the committee decided that three or four names, possibly half a dozen, should be submitted to the President, and that he should be allowed to make his own choice.

That those names may be submitted to him, and that the man chosen may first give his consent to fill the place, are the reasons presumably back of the failure of Col. New to disclose the name of the man selected, or most favored.

The man most spoken of today as the one likely to be chosen, was Senator Root, of New York. There were good reasons offered for his selection, the most important being that while he was (Roosevelt's) Secretary of State, he is now a good sound Taft man. And his reputation as a lawyer would also be expected to carry weight in a speech against the Roosevelt doctrine of the recall of judicial decisions.

Late in the evening, though, the name of another New Yorker, who is just as prominent as Senator Root—more prominent as a lawyer and a far greater orator—was suggested, that of Joseph H. Choate, former Ambassador to Great Britain under Roosevelt. Mr. Choate has taken no part in the present campaign, but he is understood to be against Roosevelt, because of his judicial recall theories.

Other names mentioned were: Senator Theodore E. Burton, Arthur I. Vorys, Myron T. Herrich and Gov. Deneen.

Whoever the man to be chosen may be, however, he will be a Taft man at heart, and will have the Taft "OK" on him before he is given the appointment to make the "big" speech of the convention. That is a certainty, because not only is Col. New a Taft man and delegate—if he is not ousted from his contested seat—but every other man on the subcommittee is for Taft.

The roll was called today—Secretary William Hayward, Franklin Murphy, of New Jersey, acting chairman of the National Committee; Victor Rosewater, of Nebraska; D. W. Mulvane, of Kansas; E. C. Duncan, of North Carolina; Ralph R. Williams, of Oregon—and all answered "Taft."

Arthur I. Vorys, of Ohio, was the only missing member, and he had business at home.

All the other temporary officers will be Taft men also. La Fayette B. Gleason, secretary of the New York State Committee, was named for temporary secretary.

William F. Stone, of Maryland, who has been sergeant-at-arms of national conventions and national committees for years, was given his old appointment for the temporary organization and Milton W. Blumenberg, official stenographer of the United States Senate, was named as official stenographer of the convention.

The subcommittee looked over and approved the plans for the seating and decorating of the Coliseum. Under the plans there will be a total of 11,172 seats. Of those 487 will be the press, 1,078 for delegates a like number for alternates, thus leaving 8,588 for spectators.

Members of the subcommittee not only declared themselves to be for Taft, but they professed to believe he will easily be nominated.

STRONG TALK OF HUGHES

May Be Compromise Man If Taft Does Not Think

He Himself Is the Strongest Man

The point blank statement was made by friends of President Taft today that Justice Charles E. Hughes will be the compromise candidate of the Chicago convention for the Presidency. It was stated that the only obstacle to an admission from Justice Hughes that he is willing to accept the nomination is a promise made to Taft at the time of his appointment to the Supreme Court bench that he would not be a candidate.

With the positive knowledge that President Taft cannot stem the Roosevelt tide at the Chicago convention a delegation of prominent Republicans within the last few days called upon Justice Hughes to ascertain his exact position. He told them frankly that his candidacy depends entirely upon the wishes of President Taft.

So bitter has the feud become that it is no longer a question of nominating Taft, but of defeating Roosevelt. The Taft forces are convinced that Hughes will be able to carry New York as opposed to Roosevelt. They say he is the only man upon whom they are willing to concentrate as a substitute for their own candidate.

It is firmly believed that the nomination of Hughes by Taft will further exasperate the Colonel and make it absolutely certain that he will run as an independent candidate.

"I Am the Compromise Man," Says Teddy

CAMBRIDGE, O., May 20.—Col. Roosevelt served notice today that he would resist any compromise at the Republican National convention.

"There can be no compromise," he said at Cambridge. "Some of our opponents are saying that neither Mr. Taft nor I should be nominated. I'll name the compromise candidate. It will be me."

A crowd of several thousand persons, including the members of the Roosevelt Club of Marietta College, greeted him.

Col. Roosevelt was told that President Perry, of Marietta College, in a speech to the students last Friday had urged the members of the Roosevelt Club who planned to go to hear the Colonel to get back to their desks as soon as possible after the "disturbance" was over. The Colonel based his speech largely upon this incident.

BAPTISTS WANT

A MILLION

Convention in Session At Oklahoma City Votes to Raise This Sum for Foreign Missions

Another Million Asked for General Fund

OKLAHOMA CITY, OKLA., May 20.—Today will go down in the history of the Southern Baptist convention as one of momentous undertakings. The crowning event from the foreign mission standpoint was the decision to raise $1,000,000 for foreign mission educational work in commemoration of the centenary of Adoniram Judson, the pioneer Baptist missionary, who sailed from America for India in 1812.

The report of the committee appointed a year ago was read by Secretary Lansing Burrows. One million dollars is to be used as an educational fund in foreign lands, $200,000 of it going for the education work in the foreign fields. It is to be made payable in three years the final payment to be made in 1915. Provision also is made for $250,000 to be known as the Judson fund. This will be used in building missionary homes, meeting houses and hospitals. Dr. S. B. Ray educational secretary of the foreign board, was nominated to look after raising this fund, with the power to select his assistants. The report of the committee was adopted by an enthusiastic rising vote.

Following the report of the committee on apportionment, recommended that $1,030,000 be raised for mission work during the coming year. Of this sum $412,000 is for home mission work and $618,000 for foreign mission work. This is an increase of 10 per cent over last year.

Kentucky will be asked to raise $29,000 for home missions and $41,000 for foreign.

T. J. Watts, of Kentucky, read the report of the Baptist Young People's Union work. It showed a total of 2,423 unions with a combined enrollment of 76,665 members. This is an increase over last year of 460 organizations and 15,965 members. Texas has the largest membership with 668 unions and 23,080 members.

The following officers were elected for the union: W. W. Hamilton, Virginia, president; T. J. Watts, Kentucky, corresponding secretary.

The report requested the services of one of the field secretaries of the Sunday school board to give his whole time to Sunday-school work east of the Mississippi river. The request was granted. A secretary already has been assigned to the territory west of the Mississippi.

G. A. R. Decoration Services

John G. Eve Post No. 221 G. A. R. will meet at the courthouse, Thursday, May 30, 1912. For the purpose of marching to the cemetery to strew flowers upon the graves of the old soldiers who are buried there. After services are over at the cemetery there will be a march to the Knox County Fair grounds. Where refreshments will be served and a most enjoyable time will be spent. All are most cordially invited to be present upon this occasion, there will also be good speaking, good water and a basket dinner spread. Come out and help make this one of the best days ever spent in your life. The following is the list of some of the speakers, J. M. Robison, John G. Mathews and others.

PARKER MERCANTILE CO.

CONGRESSMAN POWERS'

SUCCESS IN PENSION

LEGISLATION

In his public utterances before he was elected to Congress Mr. Powers contended that the best way to get relief for the old soldiers of the country was to pass a general pension bill covering the cases of everybody who ought to have as a matter of right additional pensions. His idea was that this could not well be accomplished by special acts in individual cases for the reason that only a limited number of these could be passed, while a general pension law would cover the cases of all.

Since reaching Washington he has worked and labored persistently in getting a general pension law placed on the statute books. He introduced a dollar a day bill; so did Gen. Isaac Sherwood, and many others; and finally the friends of pension legislation, including Mr. Powers, got behind the Sherwood bill and passed it through the House. The Senate rejected it in part, and a compromise was finally had, whereby the soldiers who served in the civil war can have their pensions increased, two classes of them getting $30. per month. All soldiers are granted $30. per month who were in the civil war and who were wounded in battle or disabled by disease contracted in the line of duty and who are incapacitated for manual labor as a result thereof. The following table shows the other civil war veterans who receive pensions under the bill as passed and the amounts they receive:

AGE	3 mo.	6 m.	1 yr.	1½ yrs.	2 yrs.	2½ yrs.	3 yrs.
62 yrs.	$13.00	$13.50	$14.00	$14.50	$15.00	$15.50	$16.00
66 yrs.	15.00	15.50	16.00	16.50	17.00	18.00	19.00
70 yrs.	18.00	19.00	20.00	21.50	23.00	24.00	25.00
75 yrs.	21.00	22.50	24.00	27.00	30.00	30.00	30.00

Mr. Powers, Congressman Langley and others have been trying to get through a bill to pension certain State militia, teamsters, telegraphers, etc. They confidently expect to have that bill favorable reported, if not passed, before the present session of Congress is over.

Those who claimed that Mr. Powers would accomplish nothing for the old soldiers of the country can now see wherein they were wrong.

MAKING PENS OF TANTALUM

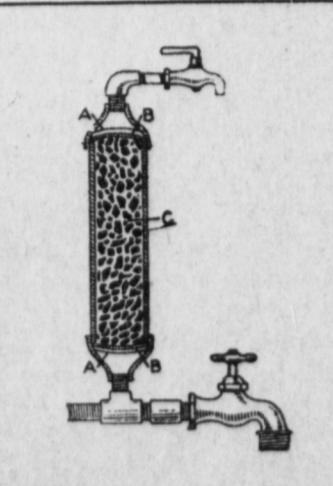

Excellent Properties of Metal Have Suggested Idea of Using It for Writing Nibs.

The excellent properties of tantalum have suggested the idea of using this metal for writing pens. Most of the pens now used are of steel, whose elasticity gives the desired pliability to the pens. But the steel pen rusts easily and is attacked by ink. Gold is rust-proof and not so attacked. But gold alone is too soft, and the extreme points must have some hard metal like iridium soldered to them to make them durable, which is complicated and expensive. Some very interesting tests have been made by German scientists. The tantalum metal was cut, formed and split like an ordinary steel pen. Then the points were bent, ground shaped, and hardened by a special hardening process, which was found to greatly prolong the life of the pens. Comparative tests were made between steel, gold, and tantalum pen points on six miles of paper, and the results showed the hardened tantalum pen to be far superior to the others. The chemical tests showed these pens to be proof against the attacks of ink.

EFFICIENT AS WATER FILTER

Cheap and Simple Device Easily May Be Arranged by Using Ordinary Pipe and Fittings.

A cheap, simple and efficient water filter may be made of ordinary pipe and fittings. Owing to the bad condition of the water supply in our city, I constructed such a filter, and it gave good results. The filter is attached to the water main just back of the faucet, says a writer in the Popular Mechanics. The large pipe or body of the filter is filled with charcoal, C, which is held in place with wool felt or filter paper, B B, and backed with wire gauze, A A. The main body of the filter is made of 1 1/2-inch iron pipe with 1 1/2 by 1/2 inch reducers at the ends.

Paper False Teeth.

False teeth made of paper in Germany are said to retain their color as well as porcelain ones, and to be stronger and cheaper.

Mrs. Hoyle—I understand your husband has money to burn.

Mrs. Doyle—Yes; and I can show you the crematory.

My Lady's Limousine

Copyright, 1912, by Associated Literary Press

The taxi in which Jimmy Rogers was being rushed uptown from the Pennsylvania station came to an abrupt stop. It was only Fifty-ninth street and when the chauffeur returned from a quick examination to tell Rogers that he could not take him no farther Jimmy swore softly under his breath.

"Great Scott, man! I have to be up at Seventy-eighth street in five minutes!"

"Sorry, boss, but this here machine won't run another block tonight."

Jimmy looked from the chauffeur's imperturbable face to his own large suitcase and the three-foot box of American Beauties that he was taking to his hostess. No! The thing was impossible! He simply must have a taxi.

In desperation Jimmy put his head out the window and hailed the first machine that passed. It was a great limousine and it came to a stop beside the taxi.

"I'll give you a fiver if you take me up to Seventy-eighth street," Jimmy promised the chauffeur.

"Jump in quick!" came the ready response.

Rogers lost no time. Within the luxurious car Jimmy stretched his long legs and sniffed the scented air. "My lady's Limousine," thought Rogers and glanced at the fur-lined carriage slippers on the floor.

Suddenly an idea struck Jimmy. Why not show a little appreciation for the timely use of her car? He would leave one great American Beauty in the vase by the mirror.

The rose was scarcely in its place before the machine came to a stop.

Jimmy sprang out lightly and for the chauffeur's sake, quickly.

"Here you are, old man," he gave the man his money; "you've done me a good service."

"Mum's the word," grinned the chauffeur, and went swiftly off to call for his mistress at the opera.

If Amy Wade counted only eleven American Beauties in the box Jimmy gave her she did not mention the fact. "We thought you were lost," she told him later, when he entered the drawing room. "I hope nothing happened."

"Nothing but a broken-down taxi," laughed Jimmy.

"Well see that you don't lose your heart to any of the pretty Iowa girls tonight and break that."

Dick Wade added: "There'll be a bunch of them there."

"Wade did not exaggerate," decided Jimmy, when an hour later his eyes traveled from one beautiful face to another. Blondes, brunettes and even titan-crowned heads were there among that throng of the Iowa society.

Mrs. Wade was approaching him, and with her was a vision in yellow. At least Jimmy thought she was a vision until he found that he was holding a very warm tingling hand within his own.

"I have told you all about Jimmy Rogers, Faith, so be good to him—he is all alone in this big city," Amy Wade cast a laughing glance at her two friends and went in search of her husband.

"So I must be good to you," Faith Carter looked at Rogers from under her lashes and decided the task would not be difficult.

"Certainly," Jimmy Rogers' tone was such as to bring a slight flush into Faith's cheeks. "And since you have orders to be good to me I am going to trespass and ask you an impudent question."

Faith's startled eyes met his.

"Why have you absolutely ruined a most beautiful costume and color of effect by wearing that American Beauty rose? I watched you coming toward me and thought you—perfect, save for that one jarring note."

Faith Carter laughed a quick, nervous little laugh and glanced down at the one thick stemmed rose that she had thrust among the soft tea roses of her corsage bouquet.

Rogers realized that he was waiting with great expectancy for her answer. The rose seemed suddenly to have assumed enormous proportions in his eyes.

"This rose," said Faith when he had settled himself beside her on the wide divan, "found its way very mysteriously into my limousine while I was listening to Caruso in Rigoletto this afternoon. So you see," she laughed, mockingly, "there is hope that I have an unknown admirer."

"I doubt if he remains long unknown," Jimmy Rogers said.

"Oh! Here you two are!" Amy Wade and her husband came up to break the silence.

"I say, Jimmy," put in Dick Wade by way of making conversation, "the next time you buy roses for my wife see that you get full measure. There was one shy in the box and American Beauties count. That one Faith is toying with just reminded me."

Faith turned her eyes so suddenly and forcefully on Jimmy Rogers that he felt like a small and very guilty schoolboy. "You look guilty, Mr. Rogers; I believe the twelfth rose has gone astray."

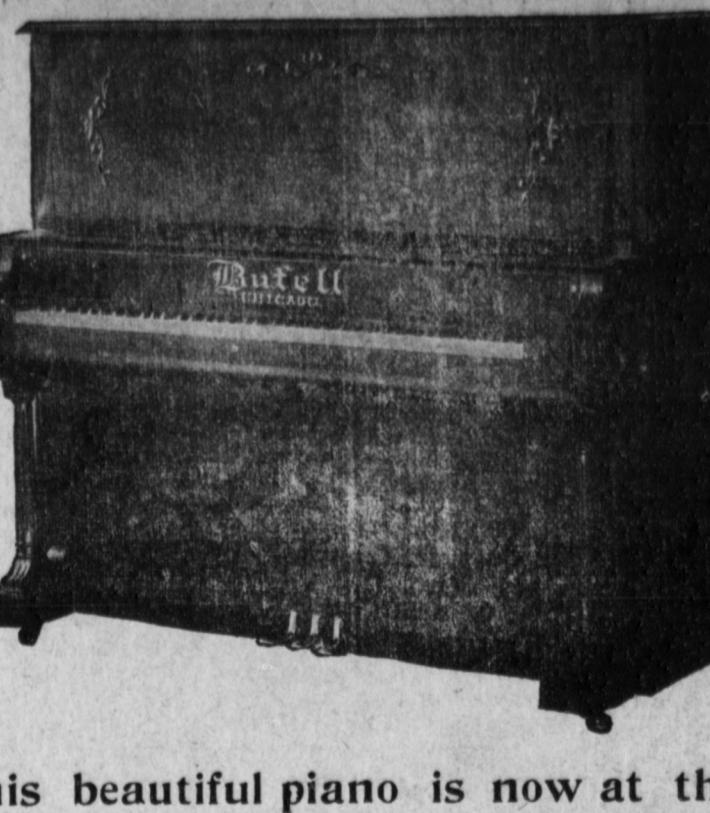

"I will confess," Jimmy told her under his breath, "that I myself would stray a thousand times if, in the end, I might find so wondrous a nest."

Faith glanced at him from beneath her lashes.

"Perhaps one straying in your case, would do," she remarked.

PLAYED FOR HEAVIER TIPS

Neapolitan Waiter Had Shrewd Scheme to Coax More Money From Generous Tourists.

"I was in Naples when old Vesuvius broke loose the last time," said an American tourist, "and the waiter at the table at my hotel was certainly pleased at the size of the tips I handed him daily. He could speak pretty fair English, and for three or four days he gave me all the information he could. One day, however, when I handed him the usual coin he looked at it in a way to make me see that he was dissatisfied.

"Anything wrong, Josa?" I asked.

"Hasn't the service been good?" he inquired in turn.

"All that I could have hoped for."

"But I had looked for a little increase
